In five years,

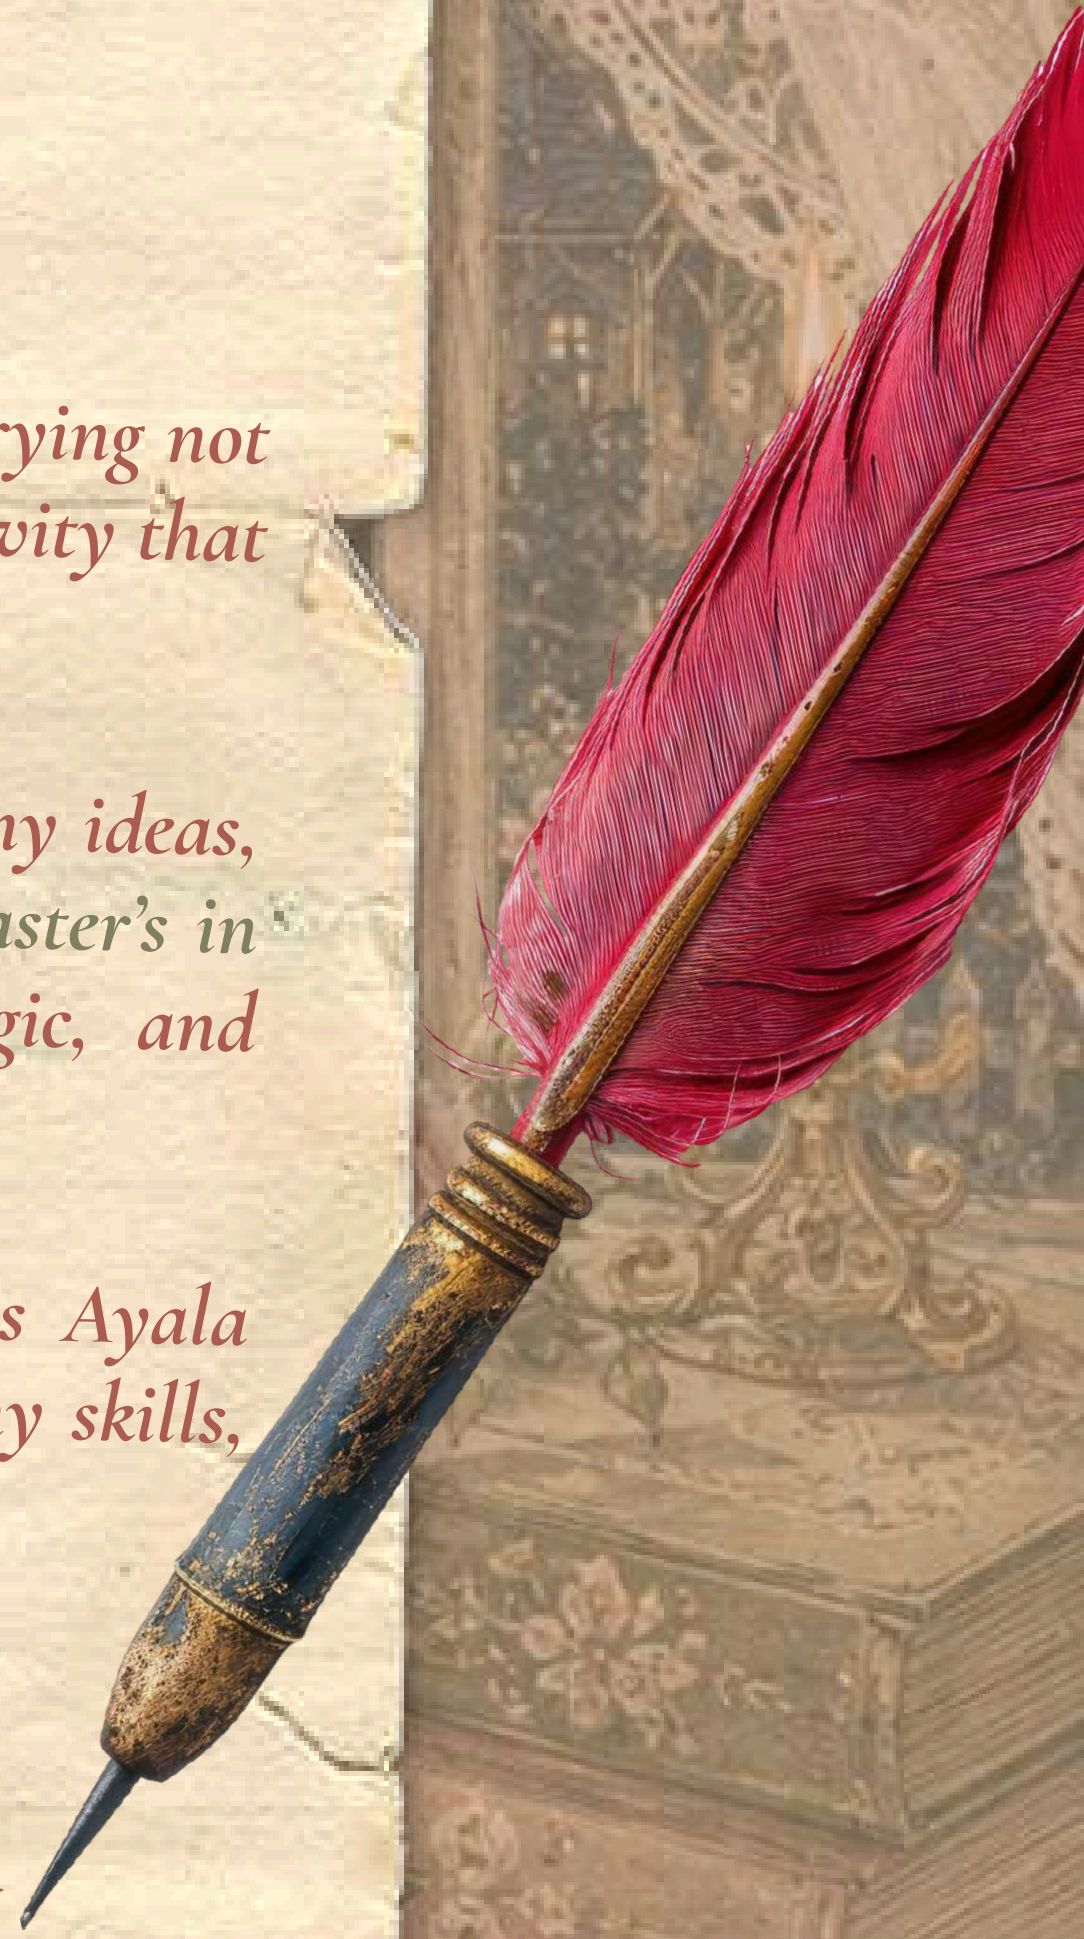

I see myself standing with a Bachelor's degree in Business Management, carrying not only the knowledge I have gained, but also the discipline, courage, and creativity that shaped me along the way.

I hope to begin building and managing my own business, one that reflects my ideas, values, and purpose. I also see myself continuing to grow by pursuing a Master's in Business Administration, allowing me to become more prepared, strategic, and confident in the field I have chosen.

I aspire to gain meaningful experience from a major corporation, such as Ayala Corporation, where I can learn from real business environments, sharpen my skills, and understand how great organizations create impact.

Above all, I hope to become a business leader who is capable, creative, and purposeful. This is only the beginning of the next chapter I am writing.
